A country without atom bombs is simply incapable of annihilating a country that has them

Are the US, Israel and Saudi Arabia preparing for regime change in Iran?

The attempt to effect regime change in Damascus – a policy promoted primarily by Hilary Clinton and the neocons and then by President Barack Obama – was an unconditional failure. Barack Obama’s popular policies of “annihilating” a country that has them is a country that has them is simply incapable of annihilating a country that has them.

Looking for alternatives in all the wrong places?

MICHAEL LUDERS

February 2019

The Security Times

CHALLENGES